SUITOR FOR WIFE'S HAND KILLS OUTRAGED HUSBAND IN QUARREL

Donora is Scene of Sensational Tragedy Saturday Midnight

ACCUSED ASSAILANT ESCAPES

Admirer Wastes no Time When Men Go Into Yard to Fight—Previous Troubles Said to Have Existed Between the Two Men.

Julius Dobski, a Hungarian, 47 years old, was shot and killed by Alexander Selkai in the yard of his home on Third street, Donora, Saturday night at 11:45 o'clock, when he returned home it is said to find his wife and Selkai together. Selkai disappeared immediately after the shooting, going to Monessen by jitney bus. He was seen at Monessen, but where he went from there or whether he was cared for by friends is not known. Police of valley towns, and state and county officers are working on the case.

Dobski and Selkai are said to have had several quarrels previously over Dobski's wife and one of these resulted in the ejectment of Selkai from Dobski's house, where he lived as a boarder.

The trouble came to a head Saturday night when Dobski found Selkai at his home. The men went out into the yard to fight it out. Wasting no time Selkai is said to have pulled his revolver and to have fired one bullet. It entered Dobski's head behind the ear and penetrated the brain, causing instant death.

A boy in the neighborhood heard the shot and notified the police. The officers went to the Dobski home and found Dobski's body. Mrs. Dobski bore the news of her husband's death calmly and has since refused to say a word in regard to the case. Two arrests have been made, one a foreigner whose first name is Jim, but who refuses to give his last name. He is said to have been a witness to the shooting. The other is also alleged to have seen the affair.

Coroner James T. Heffran was notified and will arrange an inquest later in the week.

TACKS STOP FAYETTE CITY PARTISAN PARADE

A Fayette City Democratic celebration last week was short lived, according to a story now being repeated. The celebration got under way—the chief feature being an automobile parade—when an interruption came. Some mischevious person simply threw tacks in the path of the automobiles and the tires went flat. It was a mean trick but it stopped the parade.

The Star class of the First Christian church will hold a Bingville social at P. H. C. Hall Tuesday November 14. Admission 15c. 124-t4

MORAL: DON'T HUG GIRLS ON STREET BEFORE ASKING LEAVE

Fallowfield Young Man Learns Saturday Something About Wisdom—Loving Embraces Repelled.

Hugging girls is not a safe thing to do on the streets, particularly when the girls are strangers. Ralph Trinder of Fallowfield township realizes this now, but it took a race and arrest to prove it to him. The story is that Friday Trinder was in town and parted with some good coin for stuff which makes a thirst harder than ever to quench. The effect was noticeable. He attempted to put his arms in a loving embrace around a maidenly waist or two, without first inquiring as to the propriety of the act it is said. The police got on his trail and chased him part way home before arresting him. Saturday the hearing was held, but he was discharged, having little money, and promising to do better.

WILSON WORKERS WILL CELEBRATE

Parade to be Held Tonight Because of Tuesday's Victory at the Polls

MANY AUTOS TO BE IN LINE

With a parade in which all supporters of the President from this district have been asked to participate, local Wilson men tonight will celebrate their national victory at the polls Tuesday. The parade will be the only feature of the celebration, except the red fire that will be burned and the banners that will be carried.

The parade will be organized under the direction of Marshall E. R. Allen and a corps of aides at the corner of Third street and McKean avenue at 7:45 o'clock. With two bands and the Veteran Guard Drum corps in line the parade will move down McKean avenue to Ninth, up Ninth street to Fallowfield, up Fallowfield avenue to Second street and down Second street to McKean and the Third where the party will disburse.

In many respects the affair will be an automobile parade. There will be from 35 to 50 automobiles in line, all filled with Wilsonian men. Following the machines will come a party of marchers.

DAIRYMAN NOT EASY VICTIM FOR SHARPER

Joseph Lytle's Interests Protected by Bankers and Liveryman While he is Absent From Home—Hired Man Makes His Getaway

How a "hired man" accomplished little in his attempts at horse stealing and forging checks is a story told at Monongahela by Joseph Lytle, prominent dairyman of Forward township, Allegheny county, and formerly president of the National bank of Monongahela, who came near being the victim.

Friday Lytle employed a stranger as a farm hand and shortly after himself started for Pittsburg. In his absence the "hired man" extracted a horse from the stable and a blank check from Lytle's check book and was off for Monolgahela. There he tried to pass the check, signed by "Joseph Lytle" and endorsed by "Milton Lytle" on a merchant. The latter grew suspicious and took the check to the First National bank with which Mr. Lytle was formerly connected. There the cashier refused to cash it.

Baffled, the "hired man" went to Elizabeth and left the horse at a livery stable. The livery man thought he recognized the horse and learning by telephone that one of Lytle's was missing, refused to give up the animal when the "hired man" called for it. The "hired man" hurried away for parts unknown then, and the horse was returned to Mr. Lytle, who is out only a "hired man."

MANGAN OUT OF GAME FOR REST OF SEASON

Bucknell College Star Quarterback Receives Injury in New York University Game—Had Scarcely Recovered From Former Injuries.

Tom Mangan of Charleroi, Bucknel's star quarterback, had his shoulder broken in the New York University on Election day and is now out of the game for the remainder of the season. This is Mangan's second injury this fall. Early in the first quarter of the State game he had to retire with broken ribs and since then and until the New York game Bucknell had to rely upon inexperienced field generals.

Mangan's head work and excellent open field running were powerful factors in winning the first two games of the season, and it was hoped that with him back in the game again the team would once more strike its winning stride. This second injury to Mangan is a heavy loss to the Bucknell team as real quarterbacks are hard to find.

One of his press writeups tells of his ability as follows: "Mark Twain, Edgar Allen Poe, F. These were given as representing part of "Uncle Sam's Family" and other characters were included, such as the Hebrew merchant, the Indiana farmer, the Illinois German rendering his first polit.cal speech, and finally two young society ladies as parlor entertainers."

PRICES STILL SOARING; HUMBLE TOBY AFFECTED BY THE ADVANCE

Manufacturers Announce Definite Retail Increases For December 1

COST OF PRODUCTION GROWS

Higher Wages Being Paid Now and Tobacco is Selling at High Price—Eggs, Butter, Meat and Other Products Selling at Top Notch.

Not only is the price of foodstuffs soaring beyond the skies, eggs and butter touching the top notch, meats higher than ever, and coal continually advancing among the multitude of supplies, but the popular toby is going up. Already the box prices have been advanced on the humble but ever popular toby, but with the first of December will come very definite changes in the retail price.

The Wheeling variety of toby will after December be one inch shorter. A number of city retailers have advanced already the three-for-five-cent brands to five for 10 cents and the "two-fers" to three for 10 cents.

The climax came when Wheeling manufacturers were compelled to pay the toby rollers an advance of $1 a thousand or face a strike. Leaf tobacco is scarcer than ever before known. Even the Pennsylvania quality is selling at 18 cents a pound on the field as against 6 and 7 cents, the regular price.

The Wheeling toby manufacturers pay $1 an inch per thousand for rolling tobies, so that the present rate is $7 a thousand for making them. After December 1, the size will be six inches in length instead of 7. Independent manufacturers are all in line with the increase, and retailers will have to follow their lead.

Eggs, where they are obtainable are selling as high as 60 cents a dozen. Bread prices have increased 20 per cent. Potatoes that were selling at 30 to 60 cents a bushel a little more than a year ago, cannot be bought for less than $2 now. The humble cabbage commands five cents a pound and it is unsafe to try to follow the ever changing prices of meats.

Balance of Approximately $3,625,000 On Hand at End of October, Half of This in Active Depositories.

Only 88 banks and trust companies in Pennsylvania outside of the active depositories contain deposits of state's balance at the end of October being the smallest in years. The state'ss balance at the end of October amounted to $3,625,966.79, of which almost half was in the active depositories and subject to draft for payment of school appropriations, governmental expenses and other charges.

Thirty-eight banking institutions had inactive deposits of the general fund, their total being less than a third, while 47 hold sinking fund deposits to the amount of $646,000.

SUNDAY SCHOOL FOLK CONVENE

First Session of Charleroi District Workers Held on Sunday

INSPIRING ADDRESSES MADE

With inspiring addresses on Sunday school work among the younger folk, Miss Martha McDonald of Mt. Washington and Charles S. Donley of Canonsburg, regaled their hearers in the first session of district convention of the Washington County Sunday School association at Christ Lutheran church Sunday afternoon.

Dr. J. W. Manon, president of the district presided. Rev. C. P. Bastian conducted the devotions. Prof. I. T. Daniel was in charge of the music.

Miss McDonald made the first address of the afternoon speaking on the theme, "The Teacher's Responsibility." In outlining her talk she said that the teacher's responsibility in Sunday school work—as an ambassader of Christ—was to lift up. "We cannot meet a need until we know it," she said, "and we cannot know it until we see it." She declared the destiny of the teacher was to win souls.

The one special musical number of the afternoon was a soprano solo by Mrs. A. G. Lewis, who rendered in good voice, "The Prayer Perfect."

Charles S. Donley spoke on "Holding the Boys and Girls of the Teen Age." As the county superintendent of secondary division work he discussed problems teachers of intermediates have. He spoke of the wrong influences with which the Sunday schools must cope, and discouraged the loafing habit among boys. He spoke in favor of athletics and other clean means of interesting young people.

Miss Frances Cooper of Monongahela outlined a challenge which was in the interests of the official Washington County Sunday school journal. Conferences were held at the close of the afternoon's convention.

A nominating committee was appointed to consist of Miss Edith Woodhall, D. N. Hall, Mrs. J. K. Mitchell, D. F. Worthington and a member of the county official corps. Nominations of officers will be presented at the second session of the convention tonight and the election and installation take place. Speakers this evening will be Dr. John McNaugher of Pittsburg, Mrs. Mary L. Stewart of Washington and W. S. James of Charleroi.

ELECTORAL VOTES.

There is really no sound basis of complaint this year against the electoral college, no matter who believes or disbelieves in it, for Woodrow Wilson not only received sufficient electoral votes by ballot of the states to entitle him to election, but he also received the highest popular vote.

However, it is pretty hard to scrape up a good argument in favor of the electoral college. It gives states of a nation a greater power than the nation's peoples possess, if this statement is intelligible. By this is simply meant that, as illustrated four years ago and various times before that, the nation may tender a candidate the greatest number of popular votes, yet the electoral college constituted according to the number of representatives and senators from each state, may be made up as to entirely change the result from the way in which the people apparently intended. Woodrow Wilson was not elected in 1912 by popular vote, by a majority of the people; he was elected by a majority of the electoral college, which he claimed easily enough by carrying a sufficient number of states.

As the population becomes more evenly distributed over the United States the electoral vote will be representative more than it is now, yet that is no excuse for its existence. If the American people can select their senators and representatives in congress by direct vote, they ought to be able to select their own president without the assistance or interference of an electoral college.

ELECTION COMPLAINTS

There was a sort of blind justice in California's destiny this year in election results. There women were allowed to vote and it was their vote which swung the state into the Democratic columns. Yet elsewhere in the nation women were denied the vote, and it is quite likely had there been national woman suffrage or on the other hand a curtailment of the privileges of the California women, the national result would have been different. Aa complaint exists too in ferent. A complaint exists too in lege. Following are some excepts from pertinent New York newspaper editorials:

Herald—"It is a national scandal that women should be allowed to vote in some states and not in others—that the selection of a president should be committed into the hands of women voters in one state or group of states, when women in other states are denied the voting privilege."

American—"If the cumbersome and antiquated electoral college were abolished and the people voted directly for presidential candidates. there would be no prolonged uncertainty about election results."

World—"Again the American people have received an impressive warning that the electoral college is a menace to the political stability of the United States."

Tribune—"It is relatively a minor thing whether the few hundred votes that will decide the electoral vote of that will decide the elecRNUUUP California and Minnesota fall to Mr. Wilson or Mr. Hughes. The very fact that these Republican states have been in doubt to this moment indicates the extent of the failure of the Republican candidate and his party, and not less clearly the amazing triumph of Mr. Wilson."

In Father's Time

By Walt Mason

When I was young the old farm wagon was the only chariot we had; the sides were bent, the seat saggin', the wheels were always feeling bad.

On Saturday we'd hear Dad saying. "I guess we'll have to go to town, and sell the eggs the hens are laying, and get your Ma a gingham gown. We'll have to travel mighty slowly, to save the horses for the field." We climbed aboard the craft unholy, and all its bolts and fixtures squealed.

And then along the road we jolted—'twas seven weary miles to town. and my sad soul in vain revolted, at how Dad held the horses down. "We musn't let them scratch the gravel," he'd say, when I was showing pique; "It hurts them more to town to travel, than plowing hurts them in a week."

And so the snails went whizzing by us—the way they passed us was a shame; and what Dad said was scarcely pious, when Jim, the sorrel horse, went lame. It took all day to go the distance; when we got home, with sigh and groan, I went to bed, with Dad's assistance—I was too sore to go alone.

How times have changed! I now am bossing the farm my father used to run; and now and then you see me tossing into the bank a roll of mon. And when I find it necessary, to go to town to sell some chicks, the trip is brief and glad and merry: I travel in my new "Light Six." My time's too precious to be wasted; I rush, and get my business through; when speed the modern man has tasted, he knows the old way will not do.

And when it comes to recreation, I take my wife and al lthe folks, indulging in a gas vacation, forgetting labor and its yokes.

And thus the motor car makes farming—which used to be a weary grind—an occupation glad and charming—the old slow methods left behind.

Odd Numbers.

A hen is always given an odd number of eggs to be hatched. Why? There is no reason at all except superstition.

Salutes from warships, forts, etc., are always given in odd numbers, yet no real reason can be adduced. It is a remnant of the old "odd numbers are lucky" superstition.

Vergil records all sorts of charms and spells practiced round odd numbers—never even ones. Seven is the favorite Biblical number, and old divines taught that it held a mystical perfection. It is an odd number.

Falstaff, in the "Merry Wives," is entrapped for the third time. He himself said, "They say there is a divinity in odd numbers" because of the old belief in odd numbers.

Physicians of other days always insisted that "bleedings" should be in odd numbers—one, three, five, etc., and never an even one.—London Mail.

The "Ear of Dionysius."

A cunningly constructed prison cavern, consisting of a large chamber connected with one of smaller dimensions situated near Syracuse, Italy, has gone into legendary history with the title of the "Ear of Dionysius."

The smaller chamber was unknown to the prisoners kept in this underground dungeon, and the tyrant by whose name it is known had a habit of secreting himself there to listen to the conversation of the convicts, who were mostly political offenders.

An ingenious device constructed at the smaller end of the larger chamber transmitted the sounds through the partition, thus enabling the suspicious ruler to hear even the whispered conversations of his "suspects."

Scotsmen Are French Citizens.

Every Scotsman is a French citizen, with all the rights and privileges of such, if he chooses to claim them. In other words, every Scotsman born in Scotland is also a Frenchman and is thus possessed of two nationalities, surely a unique position.

After his coronation at Rheims in 1429 Charles VII. promulgated a decree that, in return for the assistance rendered by the Scottish soldiers to Joan of Arc, who defeated the English and made his coronation possible, Scotsmen were for all time to be considered free citizens of France.—London Answers.

Business Instinct.

Mary's mother found her busily engaged in cutting up potatoes. "Why Mary," said the astonished mother "what are you doing that for?"

Pausing a moment in her task, Mary looked up and replied, "I heard the man over at the store say that there was money in potatoes this year, mamma, and I was just looking for some." —New York Times.

Steep Farming.

A slope in the valley of the Ollantaytambo, Peru, with an angle of about 45 degrees, or steeper than the roofs of most houses, is covered with transverse ridges, showing that the entire surface was cultivated in former times. Parts of the same slope are still cultivated.—National Geographic Magazine.

Makings of an Artist.

He who works with his hands only is a mechanic; he who works with hand and head is an artisan, and he who works with hands, head and heart is an artist.—Ruskin.

Barley Water.

Sometimes the doctor orders barley or oatmeal water for baby. When such is the case prepare as follows:

Add two tablespoonfuls of washed pearl barley or of oatmeal, as the case may be, to a quart of cold water. Boil this down to a pint, cooking slowly for about two hours. Then strain while hot and add a sufficient quantity of cold boiled water to make a quart of the fluid. Keep cool in a covered jar.

The answer may well induce you to make the change yourself.

Consistent Advertising!

Consistency in advertising is as necessary to the building of a business as anything else. Suppose for instance that the several candidates whose campaigns for the presidency and other government positions have just closed, had left their intesests take care of themselves as soon as they had received the nomination. Do you think the interest would have been so great if these men had just waited for their election with little or no effort on their part to obtain it?

You, Mr. Merchant, must do as they did. Keep your merchandise before the people consistently, and like Mr. Wilson you will be pleased with the results.

GRAFT IN THE ORIENT.

An Incident That Illustrates the Way of the Far East.

I had had experience with corruptible Turkish officers, and one day when barrack conditions became unendurable I went to the officer commanding our division, an old Arab from Latakieh who had been called from retirement at the time of the mobilization. He lived in a little tent near the mosque, where I found him squatted on the floor nodding drowsily over his comfortable paunch. As he was an officer of the old regime, I entered boldly, squatted beside him and told him my troubles. The answer came with an enormous shrug of the shoulders.

"You are serving the sultan. Hardship should be sweet."

"I should be more fit to serve him if I got more sleep and rest."

He waved a fat hand about the tent.

"Look at me! Here I am, an officer of rank and"—shooting a knowing look at me—"I have not even a nice blanket."

"A crime! A crime!" I interrupted. "To think of it, when I, a humble soldier, have dozens of them at home! I should be honored if you would allow me"— My voice trailed off suggestively.

"How could you get one?" he asked.

"Oh, I have friends here in Saffet, but I must be able to sleep in a nice place."

"Of course. Certainly. What would you suggest?"

"That hotel kept by the Jewish widow might do," I replied.

More amenities were exchanged, the upshot of which was that my four friends and I were given permission to sleep at the inn—a humble place, but infinitely better than the mosque. It was all perfectly simple.—Alexander Aaronsohn in Atlantic Monthly.

MILLION ACRE FARMS.

Those Are the Kind, as a General Rule, They Have In Mexico.

In the United States the farmer is a humble person. In Mexico he is a king of millionaires. You look out across a level plain and you see a magnificent house of stone, cement and great timbers, covering sometimes as much as half an acre. Surrounding it are other houses. hundreds of them, but all small, constructed of adobe, brush or even of cane stalks. You are not looking at a town, but at a ranch settlement. In the great house, which costs many times more than all the little houses put together, live the haciendado and his family. In the little houses live the peons.

The typical farm in Mexico is not of 100 acres, but of 1,000,000. In the state of Morelos twenty-eight haciendados own all the agricultural lands; twelve own nine-tenths of them. The territory of Quintana Roo, double the size of Massachusetts, is divided among eight companies. The greater portion of the state of Yucatan is held by thirty men, kings of sisal hemp. A major fraction of the agricultural and grazing lands of Chihuahua is owned by one family. Lower California, equal in size to Alabama, is nearly all held by five great corporations.

The 1,000,000 acre farms lie mostly fallow. Naturally a rich agricultural country, Mexico does not produce enough corn and beans to feed her own peon population. Modern machinery is needed, but modern machinery will never be used extensively so long as the peon is so cheap that primitive methods are cheaper than machine methods.—World Outlook.

Drum Fire and Curtain Fire.

"Drum fire" and "curtain fire" are modern war terms. "Drum fire" is the firing of artillery at stated intervals, the resultant noise being described as like the steady hammering of a great drum. When the desired effect of reducing the point of the attack has been accomplished the guns are elevated to a higher point and are fired continuously, making a "curtain of fire" to prevent re-enforcements reaching the point of attack from the rear and at the same time allowing the infantry to attack under protection of the guns.

Practical Religion.

The story is told of a little housemaid, far over the sea, who, when asked whether she realized that she was in any way different after uniting with the church from what she had been before, thought for an instant and then, smiling brightly, said, "Well, I sweep the corners." She could hardly have given a better demonstration of the reality of her religious life.—Christian Herald.

Not So Far Wrong.

"Have you written all the invitations to my party, mamma?" queried little Eva.

"Yes, dear," answered her mother. "They are all written and mailed."

"And how soon will the acceptions and deceptions begin to come in?"—Chicago News.

Work of a Beacon.

There is a flashing beacon on Richardson rock, a wave swept spot west of the Santa Barbara islands, California, which, without attention, will flash its warnings every three seconds for seven months, or over 6,000,000 flashes, before it requires recharging with gas.—Argonaut.

All Sorts.

"How's this—seven different styles of plug hats?"

"The line officers of our lodge. Each bought a plug hat the year he was elected."—Kansas City Journal.

To dread no eye and to suspect no tongue is the greatest prerogative of innocence.—Dr. Johnson.

OUR BELT OF ATMOSPHERE

In Thickness It Is to the Earth as the Skin Is to the Apple.

In a contribution to the year book of the department of agriculture Roscoe Nunn of the United States weather bureau compares the thickness of the atmospheric envelope that surrounds the earth with the diameter of the earth itself.

The extreme limit of the earth's atmosphere above the surface of the earth is estimated to be 200 miles. The earth's diameter is approximately 8,000 miles. But the density of the atmosphere decreases rapidly as altitude increases, so that three-quarters of the mass of the atmosphere lies below the [illegible].

Thus the solid earth has but a thin coating of air, at most only about one-fortieth as thick as the diameter of the earth, or if we consider only its really appreciable extent, which is about forty miles above the earth, only one two-hundredth as thick as the diameter of the earth. It is therefore a mere coating, not thicker, relatively speaking, than the skin on an apple of ordinary size. When we consider the fact that storms operate only in that part of the atmosphere which lies within about seven miles of the earth, and chiefly within three miles, it is truly wonderful what mighty forces they generate and what vast energy they expend within that thin film of gas.

A storm condition may cover one-third of the United States. The disturbance may be 1,000 to 1,500 miles in diameter, but less than seven miles thick. In other words, the body of air in which those tremendous forces work is of about the same proportions as a postcard.

NO ARCTIC WARRIORS.

As Hunters the Natives Are Wonders, but Cannot Make Soldiers.

Battle history halts at the arctic circle. Beyond that human life is so difficult to sustain that its willful waste is unthinkable. Nations with a foothold in the icy north recruit no armies in that frigid zone. Indeed, the men are of such meager stature and intellect that a military training is next to impossible.

The real natives of the arctic can endure hunger and fatigue, can march in their own fashion through hurricane and blizzard, but their value is rather to the explorer of the inhospitable north than to the soldier. As hunters they are wonderfully clever, yet they are curiously formal in administering the coup de grace.

They will apologize to the fierce white bear which they have cornered before advancing to a close attack with bone tipped arrows and spears, a duel in which the odds seem decisively on the bear destroying the man. They are therefore not cowards in any sense, and few sportsmen would risk their lives against bear and wolf and walrus protected only by futile weapons and their own personal dexterity.

The Lapps and Samoyeds of arctic Russia, like the Eskimos of North America and Greenland, are so often compelled in times of dearth and famine to sacrifice their aged weaklings that this form of death has become a vague religious and social principle with them.

Nature's Rifle Bullets.

What man has learned by dint of thought and experiment some of the lower animals appear to know through instinct. An instance is furnished by what is called the "spiral swimming" of certain organisms, such as the spherical shaped volvox and several elongated infusorians. As these revolve about the axis of progression in the manner of a projectile fired from a rifled gun the consequence is that they are able to travel in a straight line, as they could not do otherwise, the revolution compensating with absolute precision for any tendency to deviate from a straight course. Without such a device many of these minute creatures would simply describe circles, making no forward progress.

Creation of a Knight.

The ceremonies at the creation of a knight have been various. The principal were a box on the ear and a stroke with a sword on the shoulder. John of Salisbury tells us the blow with the naked fist was in use among the ancient Normans. By this it was that William the Conqueror conferred the honor of knighthood on his son Henry. It was afterward changed into a blow with the flat of the sword on the shoulder of the knight.

Appreciation.

"How was the concert last night?" asked the low browed person.

"Splendid," replied the lover of music. "Signor Spodelli actually made his violin talk."

"It's remarkable what some of those fellows can do with a fiddle. I heard a chap in vaudeville once who could imitate the howling of a dog to perfection."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Losing Ground.

"My wife is in a fix about her garden party."

"What's wrong?"

"Declinations are coming in about as fast as she can send invitations out."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Making Progress.

"Has he asked for your daughter's hand?"

"No, but I have hopes. He has taken to ordering the servants about."—Life

STINGER ELIMINATED BY LOADMAN IN THIRD ROUND OF BATTLE HERE

The Dick Loadman-Lew Stinger battle, billed as the main event extraordinary of the Charleroi Boxing club's Saturday show at the rink, went not quite three rounds, with Loadman upon investigation and sufficient proof being credited a knockout.

Loadman and Stinger entered the ring apparently in the prime of condition and their fighting was fast from the first gong. But in the third something happened. Loadman planted a blow that put Stinger on the boards to rest up for the rest of the evening. Immediately a cry of foul was heard, coming it might be wise to mention from Stinger's corner. A doctor was called into consultation and Stinger was removed to his dressing room. There it was discovered that the blow was a fair one planted well in the Philadelphian's stomach. That ended the discussion and eliminated Stinger.

In the semi-final "Chick" Rodgers of Mt. Washington and K. O. Brennan of Pittsburg hooked up. They went at it hammer and tongs. Two konckdowns came early in the game, yet the affair went the full six rounds with Rodgers at the finish having possibly a shade the advantage.

Martie Henderson and Eddie Wimler battled in the second event of the evening for six hard rounds that ended with Wimler having a slight advantage.

Young Marmina and Gadsy Bennet fought a six round draw in the first bout of the evening. William Riley of Monesen refereed all bouts.

The main event of the event assumed a championship hue, from the fact that Loadman is soon to meet Kid Williams for the championship of the world in the lightweight class. The next battle here will be one next Monday between Dick DeSanders of Pittsburg and Barney McGuire of Williamsport.

TAKES NO CHANCES OF SPOUSE LEAVING HOME

Mrs. Horner of North Charleroi Claimed to Have Maimed Jackie Horner and Maiden Who Was Innocent Bystander.

Jack Horner, colored, and his superabundant better half, Pauline, of North Charleroi, had a slight skirmish Saturday evening when Jackie in his Sunday best started to leave home. Whether Pauline was fearful that the wiles of some Dusky Dinah or raven-tressed Chloe had been undermining her husband's affection for her is unsettled, but one thing is sure, she took no chances.

As he went down to the front gate she stalked behind and at the psychological moment unlimbered her artillery and opened fire. Jackie was hit once in the hand, while two other shots went wild and wounded Willa May Brown, colored maiden near at hand but an innocent bystander, in the arm.

The injured were removed to the Horner home and Dr. A. S. Sickman dressed their hurts. Pauline is now nursing her husband back to health. Information may be made.

Snails in the Aquarium.

Every one who keeps an aquarium knows that it is advisable to place a few snails in the tank, not only because snails are interesting in themselves, but because they are good cleaners, says the Popular Science Monthly. If the keeper of the aquarium knows that too much sunlight will produce too much plant growth and has placed the vessel in a partly shaded place where the proportion of light and shade is about right the snails, if they are numerous enough, can control the growth.

Nature has provided them with a peculiar anatomical structure resembling a narrow ribbon, which in detail is like the band of teeth on a carpenter's rasp. Under the microscope these so called "lingual ribbons," or tongues, are seen to be thickly set with rows of sharp edged teeth which are themselves toothed and which rasp off microscopic plants and carry them into the mouth.

SWEPT AWAY THE MOORS.

Grimaldi Saved Monaco and Was Made Ruler of the Tiny Land.

Did you ever hear of the most distinguished of the Grimaldi family, not the Genoese general who remained at home and fought for his own country, nor yet the artist who did heroic stunts on canvas, nor the sixteenth century Grimaldi who died by the hand of an assassin in the palace at Monaco, but the tenth century ancestor of that prince who saved Monaco from the Moors? His was an achievement worthy of a true soldier of fortune.

The tiny principality, perched on its seagirt cliff had been settled by the Greeks even before Athens became the greatest city of the civilized world. It was one of the cultural outposts of Rome, and in the fifth century it was an important center of Christianity.

Then the Moors crossed the Mediterranean, extended their sway over Spain and seized the ancient Heculis Monoeci Portus and gave over its churches and monasteries to the infidels. For 200 years they defied the soldiers of Europe, and then Grimaldi came. There had been many wars in Genoa, and here was a chance for a Genoese captain.

When his military genius had driven the Moors into the sea, he was rewarded by being made absolute monarch of a country fifty-three miles in circumference.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

When Shaw Was Married.

"I was very ill when I was married," Bernard Shaw once wrote, "altogether a wreck on crutches and in an old jacket which the crutches had worn to rags. I had asked my friends, Graham Wallas and Henry Salt, to act as witnesses, and, of course, in honor of the occasion they were dressed in their best clothes. The registrar never imagined I could possibly be the bridegroom. He took me for the inevitable beggar who completes all wedding processions. Wallas, who is considerably over six feet high, seemed to him to be the hero of the occasion, and he was proceeding to marry him calmly to my betrothed when Wallas, thinking the formula rather strong for a mere witness, hesitated at the last moment and left the prize to me."—"George Bernard Shaw—His Life and Works."

A Snake's "Leap."

A naturalist denies that it is true that a snake ever "leaps" at its foe or prey. Except the cobra, no snake can raise more than a third of its length from the ground, though there are instances in which rattlesnakes, probably unconsciously, have gained an extra leverage from a wall of rock immediately behind them and so struck farther than the ordinary range.—London Spectator.

AGED KINGSTON WOMAN

Tells How She Recovered Her Strength.

If the elderly people of Kingston could realize what Vinol would do for them we would not be able to get enough to supply the demand. Following is a letter received from Mrs. A. E. Carson of this town. She says:—

"I am 69 years of age, and had been ailing for a long time with indigestion. I got run down, was weak, dizzy and could not sleep at night. I consulted two doctors who said I had hardening of the arteries and at my age could not expect to be strong again. My daughter would give me no peace until I tried Vinol, as it had done so much for her. I have taken five bottles and my health and strength have come back, so I am able to do all the housework for my family of four, and I am recommending Vinol to all my friends."

The reason Vinol is so beneficial to old people is because it contains the very elements needed to replace declining strength and renewed vigor, viz., beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates, glycerophosphates and a mild tonic wine.

We want to ask every elderly person and every weak, run-down or debilitated person in Charleroi to call at our store and get a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that we will return your money if its fails to benefit.
